Graydon Sealy receives new football uniforms, equipment

League prepares teams with essential kit for competition

WITH the turn of a new year signalling a fresh start for most things, the same will hold for the Graydon Sealy Secondary School.

When the Barbados Secondary Schools' Football League picks back up this year, the lads from the former Garrison Secondary will be stepping out with a fresh look. That is because they were recently presented with new kit and equipment by the executive of the Barbados Secondary Schools' Football League.

With the league sponsored by Coca Cola, Brewster's Trust and UNICEF, they handed over new uniforms and equipment for the schools teams.

Inclusive of a medical kit, ice box, water dispenser, water bottles, shin guards and cones and 25 balls for training, the teams are expected to be well prepared for competition this year.

Team Coach Ryan Kellman and two of his players show off their new jerseys.
